

CHATTING ABOUT VALUES

- Students create stories about values –

Introduction

On Wednesday, 26th January, 2022, 10 - 12 representative students from each partner school took part in a ZOOM online activity entitled 'ONCE UPON A TIME', a chain story on values. The students worked in five different chat rooms of mixed nationality where they collaborated together in creating short stories in which they explored VALUES FOR INCLUSION including freedom, equality and tolerance. They used a lot of imagination and the end results were the culmination of all the students' ideas and imagination. The written versions were proof-read and put on Twin Space. It proved to be a fun way of getting to know a serious problem.

- One Spanish student is the leader in each group, who makes sure that the activities are going as planned / choosing the value (tolerance, equality, freedom) for the story; he/she can also be the one to begin the story: Once upon a time....

- each student says 2 sentences into the story and writes them onto the chat box, which was saved in some way, so that all the stories are collected

- one Italian student in each group makes sure the ONCE UPON A TIME activity is being recorded and saved

Polish students recorded and collected the chat stories

The chain stories were followed by a follow-up activity - solving riddles prepared by a Slovenian student.

They decided to go for a walk by the river. They met Michael Jackson there, and they walked on together. Suddenly M. Jackson fell and broke his leg. He was taken to the hospital. Ariana Grande and Leonardo Diciprio chose to go with him. The doctor said that he had to wear a cast for two months. Even though all three of them were from different ethnic backgrounds, (Araiana – Italian; DiCaprio – Italian, German, Russian; Michael Jackson – African-/Indian-American) they became very good friends.

Once upon a time there was an African boy. His name was Eric. Eric was 15 years old. Eric wanted to visit America, but he couldn't because of his nationality. He could live there if he had the right documents. If he wanted to live in America he had to be 18 years old. So, he decided to wait for another three years before leaving Africa.

Once upon a time there was a Butterfly which was quite different from the others. This Butterfly was black and white, so the other ones didn't accept him. But one day a Ladybug befriended him and they liked each other very much. The Ladybug persuaded the Butterfly to give in and try to talk to the other butterflies. To his surprise it worked. They all became friends regardless of the colour of their wings, and played happily ever after.

Room 3

Airam found himself in a room and couldn't go out. He started yelling very loudly in the hope that someone would hear him and come help him. But no one came. He felt sad, lonely and trapped. Suddenly he saw a black cat looking at him from the corner of the room. The cat showed him a mysterious hidden wall and went through it. Airam followed the cat and escaped. But he entered an even more dangerous room full of traps that had to be deactivated. Airam was good at that. Finally he followed the cat through a tiny hole and they both escaped. They have become friends ever since.
